A POINT TO AH WATCHED.

A bill embodying the features embraced in three weeks since, relating to organization of school districts in incorporated towns of ten thousand inhabitante, and to mainte introduced in the house. On looking it over we notice a feature in it which either was not in the original sketch, or escaped our attention, if there. We refer to a clause in section five which empowers the bounds of directors in such districts "to choose the text-books to be used by the pupils in such schools, proby law for the choice of books for the state and that no change shall the state and that no change shall be made in such books except at the time now prescribed by law."
